Alpha and Clayton are thankful their relationship has been less contentious than their first meeting. When the couple met on New Year's Eve in 2003, Clayton was taking cover charges at an after-hours party and accidentally gave Alpha a $20 bill in change. Alpha protested that she deserved to keep it because she was cute, but Clayton replied, "You're not twenty-dollar cute." A few weeks later at Viceroy in Belltown, Alpha noticed Clayton but did not recognize him from their previous encounter. Clayton introduced himself, reminded her of their past encounter and the rest, as they say, is history. The couple now lives on Capitol Hill, where Alpha is a server at Linda's Tavern. Clayton is a part-time music promoter. N.S.
